

I am a student at Illinois State University, and I am writing because I am sick and tired of basically everything in this election because everything in this election is a disgrace. I just finished watching the anti-Kerry add run by Sinclair, and at the end it said something like "if you support Sinclair, let the FCC know" and said nothing about if you didn't support them. It just goes to show that they knew this wasn't a news piece, only an attack on the democratic nominee, and anyone who watched the broadcast realized the same thing. In particular, the Sinclair group broadcasting the anti-Kerry ad and not showing an anti-Bush add seems to be a pretty clear breaking of the equal time law. I do not pretend to know all of the rules regarding campaign adds during an election, but what I do know is that if some network decided to show Fahrenheit 9/11 that roughly half the country would be up in arms and sending angry letters and the network would have been bullied into not showing the film, and that is my biggest problem. Half the country did cry out for fairness, only it was the side of the working class, who do not have the money or power to do anything of meaning. It just seems shady that the side represented by the large corporations get what they want while the little people get the shaft. I doubt anyone will even read this, but at least I can say I tried to do something.
